October 2

Dear Yoko,

I have exciting news for you. Do you remember how I've always wanted to learn Korean? Well now I'm finally doing it. I've found a fantastic language school not far from my apartment, and I'm studying in the evening. The classes are really interesting and the homework load is not so bad. I'm really learning a lot. The best part of all is that my company is paying 100% of the class tuition.

You know you've been saying that you want to improve your English. You're in luck! I checked and found out that the World Wide School of Languages has a branch in your city. I really recommend their classes. I think their highest- level English class would be just right for you. Your company would probably pay for the classes because you use English a lot at work. You can also arrange to get university credit. I think it's a great deal.

The other good news is that my company is sending me on a trip next month to your city. So I 'll see you soon.

Love,

Maki

"Jack the Ripper" is the best-known name given to an unidentified serial killer who was active in the poor areas in and around the Whitechapel district of London in 1888. The name originated in a letter written by someone claiming to be the murderer. The letter is widely believed to have been a hoax, and may have been written by a journalist in a deliberate attempt to heighten interest in the story. Attacks attributed to The Ripper typically involved females whose throats were cut and internal organs were removed.
Due to the nature of the murders, police believed that the killer had suspects but none was ever accurately proved to be the killer. To this day, the world still doesn't know the identity of Jack the Ripper and pr	obably never will.
