

※ 考生請注意：本試題不可使用計算機。請於答案卷(卡)作答，於本試題紙上作答者，不予計分。

You can answer in Chinese or English. Drawings or sketches are essential.

1. People use Cellular phones to make money transitions these days. Please use your imagination to design a next generation version of Cellular phone and explain the new features from product design point of view or from interaction design point of view (choose either one). (20%)
2. Smart TV is popular recently. Please use your imagination to design a next generation version of “X” TV for the elders and explain the new features from product design point of view or from interaction design point of view (choose either one). (20%)
3. Cars can talk to each other in the future. Please use your imagination to design a new feature for the “X” Car for the disabled people and explain the new feature from product design point of view or from interaction design point of view (choose either one). (20%)
4. Lamp can move by itself in the future. Please use your imagination to design a new feature for the “X” Lamp for a smart home and explain the new feature from product design point of view or from interaction design point of view (choose either one). (20%)
5. Please use your imagination to design a next generation product or application using AR (Augmented Reality) for a smart hospital and explain the new features from product design point of view or from interaction design point of view (choose either one). (20%)