Questions 37-41 refer to the following report and chart.

In an effort to increase awareness and provide adequate resources, we have conducted a survey of the cultural backgrounds of our international students. By knowing where our international students come from and by anticipating their needs, we can provide them with better learning environments. In addition, having the proper translators, doctors, and staff on hand is essential for being able to provide these students with a safe and comfortable stay. Mrs. Chang informed me that the number of Asian students attending our school has continually increased over the last five years. On the other hand, the number of students from Eastern Europe has decreased.

As you all know, the International Students Union has requested funds to start several student groups, names Japanese and Korean student clubs. They hope these clubs can bring together not only the international students, but also local students with the same cultural backgrounds. The benefit of these clubs to all students involved is easily seen. However, knowing the number or students who may be interested in such clubs must be considered before any funding can be allocated.

- ( ) 42. Why was the survey conducted?      A. To allow Asian students to attend each year      B. To promote the International Students Union      C. To notify local doctors of possible diseases      D. To promote cultural exchange ( ) 43. How has the number of Asian students changed?      A. It has leveled off.      B. It has stayed the same.      C. It has decreased each year.      D. It has grown each year.
 ( ) 44. When did the number of Japanese students start to surpass that of Korean students?      A. In 2004      B. In 2005      C. In 2006      D. In 2007

Questions 47-50 refer to the following article.

Most organization websites do little to help recruit candidates online. If the website lists openings at all, they are buried several clicks deep and merely describe the position. Does your website help you recruit? Does your "Join Our Team" section of your company website tell and even "sell" potential employees the vision, mission, values, and culture of your company? Does it present a message about how people are valued? Does it express your commitment to quality and to your customers?

If your website fails to bring candidates to your door, you are missing out on one of the most important recruiting tools you have to appeal to prospective high-potential employees.

Instead of the typical, dryly-written job listings about available positions, your website needs to include the vision and information that sets your company apart from others in your industry. Your job listings must sparkle with personality so a potential candidate thinks, "This organization is for me!"

Once you have your candidate's attention, you also need to provide a way for candidates to easily submit resumes for consideration for future positions. One client website has a "Talk to the President" link and, believe me, people do. We receive a constant stream of resumes and contacts through this invitation and even hired a Director of Production who made his first contact here.

Website recruiting is tried and tested, and the result? It works.
