The Beatles

Ask anyone, in any country, whether they are young or old, rich or poor, if they've heard of the Beatles and they will all say: "Yes, of course!" Most people know the names of at least two members of the group; most likely, John Lennon and Paul McCartney. Some people may also know a few things about when they were very young. They probably know, for instance, that they were born in Liverpool, went to school there and that there were four members of the group. But that's all that most people know about them.

John Lennon started the Beatles. He was abandoned by his parents when he was a baby and caused lots of trouble at school. He was a great fan of American rock and roll and started his first band when he was at school. Paul McCartney went to see his band play in 1957 and joined it shortly afterwards. Lennon and McCartney soon became very close friends. McCartney's talent impressed Lennon and Lennon's knowledge of the world impressed McCartney. Soon they agreed that everything they wrote together or individually would be published under their joint names "Lennon-McCartney". They kept this agreement for nearly 15 years.

George Harrison was the next person to join the group and, later, the drummer, Pete Best who was replaced just before the group became famous by Ringo Starr. The group had lots of different names when it started. They were originally called the Quarry Men, then Johnny & the Moondogs, and The Silver Beatles. They finally decided on the name the Beatles with Lennon misspelling it on purpose to make the pun on "beat group".

In 1960 the Beatles spent four months playing at clubs in Hamburg, Germany. They worked really hard there and performed eight hours every night. This helped them to build up a really impressive act and they signed their first record deal in 1962.

The Beatles' enormous success, which followed immediately after their first record was released, was unbelievable. John Lennon later talked about what it was like to be a Beatle in the early days. He said they spent all their time in a car or in a hotel room, because they travelled by road so much all over the country and spent their time between gigs in hotels.

The Beatle stopped touring everywhere shortly after 1964 and although they continued to perform and compose songs together, that was really the beginning of the end of the group. The Beatles formed their own music company called Apple and from 1966 to 1970 they produced many famous collections and songs which reflected the spirit of the time and which are still popular nowadays—songs such as “Hey Jude” and “Let It Be”.

And then, finally, the group split up. But that was not the end of their musical creativity; Lennon, for example, formed another band soon afterwards and wrote one of the most famous songs of all time: “Imaging”.

My Job at a Summer Camp, by Charlie Rose

Every year I work at a summer camp for kids and I really enjoy seeing the children do things they never thought they could do. Nearly all the kids know how to swim and play table-tennis before they come, but things like rock climbing are new experiences for most. Some of them are very nervous, but after a bit of encouragement, they agree to try and they all get to the top in the end, which makes them feel great.

The kids stay several weeks and some do miss home. You might expect it to be the really young ones who feel like that the most but it's actually the ten- to thirteen-year-olds. We don't let them use their mobile phones all the time. First we tell them they can phone home after lunch. Then when they ask again, usually after dinner, we say it's a bit too late to phone and suggest doing it the next day. Most children are fine in a couple of days and at the end of their stay, it's amazing how many come and thanks us because they have had a great time.

It's not just the children who get lonely. We get parents who are on the phone the whole time, asking how their child is getting on, which is quite unnecessary. Often their son or daughter will be busy, playing games or doing something else, so we have to tell parents to ring back another time.

Some kids arrive dressed in smart, designer, new clothes and they sometimes argue when we tell them to change into something they won't mind getting dirty, but before long they realise what we mean.
