INSTRUCTIONS: Provide a detailed answer to the following questions in English only. Your ability to present clear ideas and demonstrate your familiarity with concepts and theories of international relations will be taken into consideration when grading the exam.

1. Climate change has become a major concern for governments and societies around the world. Different actions have been taken by multiple actors in the international system in order to cope with this global pressing issue. Using some of the main concepts and ideas in the realist school of international relations (conflict, resource nationalism, protectionism, energy security, etc.), describe some of the ongoing developments that can be observed in the area of climate change. Afterwards, use some of the main concepts and ideas in the liberal school of international relations (cooperation, agreements, institutions, cultural change, etc.), to also analyze other current phenomena related to world politics and climate change. (50%)
2. Use one of the major schools of international relations (realism, liberalism, constructivism, critical theory) to analyze the situation of increasing tension between both sides of the Taiwan Strait, and the immediate causes and consequences of the Fourth Taiwan Strait Crisis. Based on the theory that you chose, what can we expect for the short and medium term to happen? (40%)
3. Besides the topics addressed in the previous questions, what is another recent international news story that has caught your attention these days? Why? Try to frame that problem in an academic way (main actors involved, motivations, causes, consequences, etc.) (10%)
