Read the following text and think about what you may say to answer the question, and then make an outline first before you start writing:

The basic sources of our energy is by burning fossil fuels – coal, natural gas, and oil, but these natural resources are non-renewable and will one day run out. In order to prolong these resources, we have to conserve materials and try to recycle them as much as possible. However, it is not so easy to convince people of the necessity of recycling. What reasons can you give to persuade people to recycle?

Write a five paragraph essay to convince people to recycle. Your introduction should give some background information and the need of recycling. Be sure you have a good thesis statement. The body consists of three paragraphs, and each one gives one reason why we should recycle. The conclusion paragraph should summarize your main points and make a recommendation or prediction.

Your paper will be evaluated for its logical organization, unity, coherence, and grammar.
