You are reading an online discussion about the trend of slashies. A slashie is a “hip” way to represent a person’s multi-faceted identities. For example, a person may call himself an “event organizer/guitarist,” or a “fashion advisor/startup co-founder/stay-at-home-parent.” You want to contribute your thought on the topic, perhaps using your own experience and observation of working lives around you. Write at least a paragraph of your thought in English and address it to an online audience composed of young people in Asia and the West.
